

The new Fishers Landing Elementary School opened in 1996 to serve more than 650 students. It is a good deal more modern than the old one. Thomas Gentry remembers that in the middle of the old schoolhouse was a giant woodstove used for heating. For a fire alarm, the teacher would grab up the iron poker and whack it on the stove. (Photograph by R. Fairhurst, 2007.)